Swim Pool Cost Projection Overtaps Bond Issue Allocation; Council Faces Options

by Mavis Fletcher

Skeptics who predicted that the six-million-dollar bond issue approved by Greenbelt voters in May 1985 would be inadequate for the list of projects to be paid for seem close to being right by the latest estimates of costs. At a city council work session on March 3, council discussed options left to them after receiving the architect's estimate of $3.5 million to build the indoor swimming pool and to repair and upgrade the outdoor pool.

City Manager James K. Giese said that he needed council guidance on the next steps it wanted to take in regard to the swimming pools. The council members quickly decided they needed to hold a meeting with the pool architect, David Almy of Sullivan and Almy, Inc., to see what possibilities there may be for scaling back the plans to stay within the $2 million figure originally planned for the pools. At the subsequent regular city council meeting, the discussion with the architect was set for March 18 in the Multipurpose Room in the Youth Center. The meeting will be open to the public.

In the actual bond issue legislation approved by the voters, no dollar limits were attached to specific project categories. However, in a brochure put out by the city council the intended allocation reads: "The City Council has allocated bond issue funds as follows: Park land acquisition and improvements — $2 million; City building improvements—$2 million; Swimming pool facilities—$2 million." Included in the list of candidate projects in the building improvement category were the new police station, additions to the Public Works facility and the Youth Center, North End School renovation, Municipal Building remodeling, and a Greenbelt museum.

Council acknowledged at the time that not all these projects could be completed for $2 million. However, the bad news about this list has gotten worse in recent months. The police station is well into the planning stage at an estimated cost of $1.7 million; the addition to the Public Works facility is estimated at $500,000; the Youth Center addition will probably cost $100,000; renovation of the police quarters in the municipal building after the police move out is estimated at $50,000. These projects add up to almost $2.4 million without allocating any funds for North End School renovation. (Establishment of the Greenbelt museum without the use of bond proceeds is underway. The first year of the museum cost has been funded from city reserves. Capital funding of some $50,000 for the museum will be shared in part over the next five years by a private support group, the Friends of the Greenbelt Museum.)

The $3.5 million estimate for the pool projects includes $350,000 for repair and upgrading of the outdoor pool. Giese indicated that repair of the outdoor pool is fairly urgent. This figure and the $2.4 million for the building improvement projects, however, add up to $5.9 million—in effect, the entire amount of the bond issue.

Choices

At the work session, Giese said that council had three choices: to raid one part of the bond issue money for projects in another part; to cut out one or more projects; or to "go for more money". He said that he had done a bond issue budget and that the $6 million bond issue would fall about $2 million short of covering all the planned expenditures, including North End School renovation.

Each of the council members present at the work session advanced some ideas about altering or scaling back plans to make them fit the money available. Mayor Gil Weidenfeld probably summed it up when he said, "There are some hard choices ahead".

No Bonds Sold Yet

To date none of the bonds which are to yield funds for these projects have been sold. Federal regulations governing the tax-free status of bonds issued by state and local governmental bodies (generally known as "municipal bonds") were greatly tightened by a 1986 tax law.

Tax-free status, which means the interest on the bonds is tax-free to the purchaser of the bond, is vital to the city because such bonds normally bear an interest rate well below the rate for other borrowing. This lower rate will save the city large sums of money over the life of the bonds. Interest on bonds issued by Maryland governmental bodies is also exempt from Maryland income taxes, making the bonds even more attractive to in-state investors.

In order for the bond interest to qualify for exemption from federal tax, the proceeds from the bonds must be used to finance operations of state or local governmental units. According to the Internal Revenue Service, this restriction, which is part of the Tax Reform Act of 1986, prevents a governmental body from selling bonds and then putting the money in some interest-bearing investment (since that would not be using it to finance governmental operations). Therefore, the bonds must be sold as closely as possible to the time the money is to be disbursed for the project being financed.

Fundraising to Be Focus Of Art Center Meeting

The Greenbelt Arts Center's annual membership meeting, scheduled for March 26 at 8 p.m., will highlight the organization's most pressing need—funding. A fund-raising drive is being organized with the objective of raising $25,000 to help cover the cost of educational workshops, publicity and productions and will begin in May.

In the past two years, the Arts Center has been the recipient of a special, but temporary, grant from Prince Georges County to assist in audience development. During this time, the size of the average audience has increased 33%. However, the grant will not be renewed after this fiscal year.

Newcomers to the board to help with fund-raising and to establish a long-range development plan are Gerry Gough, Leonard Wallace, president of Realty I, Gwen Worley, manager of Mellon Bank's Greenbelt Branch, Dial Silver, member of the city's Park and Recreation Advisory Board, and Jim Hubbard, executive vice president of the Prince Georges County Chamber of Commerce.

The Arts Center is also nearing final decisions regarding its upcoming play program. Memberships will be available so that individuals can subscribe to next season's plays.

The next play production will be "The Fantastics," the longest-running musical in theater history. A preview performance will be held on March 20 at 8 p.m. The Opening Night Gala will be on Saturday, March 21. The play will run for four weeks, concluding on Saturday, April 11. There will be a matinee Sunday, March 20 at 2 p.m.

GHI Seeks Members Willing To Serve in Elected Offices

Greenbelt Homes, Inc. is looking for a few good people — as candidates for vacancies in its upcoming election. Five positions on the Board of Directors, the three Audit Committee seats, and five Nominations and Elections Committee slots are up for election this year. The elections for Board of Directors and Audit Committee will take place Thursday, May 21. Nominations and Elections Committee members will be elected the preceding evening, May 20, at the annual meeting.

The Board of Directors sets policy and directs the operations of GHI. Persons elected serve for two years and receive a nominal salary. Being a GHI Director offers a unique opportunity to manage a million-dollar corporation and to work to make the cooperative serve its members.

The Audit Committee has an oversight role. It reviews the operations of the board, management and committees to ensure that GHI rules and regulations are followed and applied fairly. Serving on the Audit Committee is a way of really learning about and understanding how a large cooperative works. Members serve a one-year term and receive a nominal compensation.

The Nominations and Elections Committee has five members who run the elections each year. A major part of its job is to identify GHI members who would make good candidates. The 1987 Nominations and Elections Committee members are Chairman Mary Moien, John Taylor, Martha Sinden, Peggy Hool and Sandy Smith. Over the next few weeks they will be contacting members to tell them about the elections and the offices to be filled. Anyone interested in knowing more about the duties of the GHI officers or the elections should contact an N&E Committee Member.

GHI members can also check the next issue of the GHI Newsletter for more information. Updated reports from the N&E Committee will also appear in the News Review.

Cpl. Kress Is Police Officer of the Year

At an award ceremony held on January 24 by the Greenbelt Fraternal Order of Police (F.O.P.), Lodge # 32, Corporal David R. Kress was named Police Officer of the Year for the City of Greenbelt.

According to Lodge President Patrick McAndrew, the award is based on an incident which occurred in January, 1986. Kress and another officer responded to a report of a domestic quarrel involving a firearm in the Springhill Lake Apartments. Upon arrival, they heard shots and saw a man on the ground, apparently wounded.

While tending to the wounded man, Kress provided cover for a young boy climbing out of a window. A gunman, described as "on a rampage and firing randomly," came out of the building and pointed his gun at Kress, ignoring the officers' commands. Kress fired at the gunman, wounding him twice.

The award cites Kress for "bravery and protecting the lives of two people."

Kress has been with the city police department for eight years. Before becoming a police officer, he served in Viet Nam as a military policeman.

Also in the award ceremony, Corporal Craig A. Rich was named the F.O.P. Member of the Year, an award given to the person "who has made the most significant contribution" to the lodge. Rich, who has been in the Greenbelt department for five years, is the secretary of the Greenbelt F.O.P. chapter.

Pioneers Seeks Names Directory of Greenbelt

A directory is being compiled of pioneer families and their direct descendants who have lived continuously in Greenbelt ever since the families moved into the new town between the fall of 1937 and the spring of 1938. Donnie Wolfe, who is in charge of the project as a part of the 50th Anniversary Committee efforts, already has many of the names, but he needs help in being sure that no one who belongs in this directory is omitted.

The directory, expected to be published this spring, will be divided into two groups: (1) those pioneers or their direct descendants who are still living in the same house into which the family originally moved in 1937-38; and (2) those who are not now living in the original house, but who are still Greenbelt residents and have lived here continuously.

Wolfe asks that anyone in these groups, or who knows of persons in these groups, please call him as soon as possible with their information. He urges that people not hold back out of concern that they will be duplicating names he might already have, because he would rather get the same names several times than leave out even one person.

Donnie Wolfe can be called at 474-5150 any day or evening.

Miss Greenbelt Seminar

The Miss Greenbelt Pageant Committee invites all Greenbelt girls ages 14-19 to attend a seminar to be held at the Youth Center on March 17, from 7 to 9 p.m.

A sneak preview of preparations for the crowning of Miss Greenbelt 1987 will be given. "Learn about the benefits of being a contestant", says Cheri Gainor, chairperson. There is no obligation to sign up at this time. For further information, call 441-8589.

New Group Seeks Ideas For Tugwell Memorial

A subcommittee of the 50th Anniversary Committee has been formed to commemorate the contributions of those other than the Roosevelts to the establishment of this community. Principal among these is Rexford Tugwell, who lived on Northway for a number of years. The subcommittee is looking into ways to memorialize his contribution. Considered among these are: A plaque adjacent to the house he lived in, naming the area between Northway and Woodland Hills "Tugwell Park" and/or naming the path contained therein as "Tugwell Path". Anyone with suggestions for this activity should call the subcommittee chairman Alex E. Barnes at 474-5310.

CITY NOTES

The entire general crew worked at the Lake Park on clean-up one day and on leaf and brush removal two days during the week of March 7.

The special details crew worked on traffic control, replacing signs and removing grass from behind the curb to prepare for spring curb and area painting.

Members of both crews and the parks crew worked on trash removal. On the two days the driver for the special trash truck was assigned to drive the bus, the crew was supplemented by members of the special details crew.

The parks department worked on small equipment and playground equipment, street landscaping and maintenance of equipment. Three members of the department attended a one-day seminar on Kohler twin engines.

All members of all crews worked on brush removal throughout the city and on calls for service with the chipper. The chipper was out every day during the week. The Public Works Department is still cleaning up after the February 23 snowstorm.

Because of the back-to-back snow storms on January 22 and January 25, the entire Public Works Department was busy trying to keep the city streets plowed and the refuse collected.

The Greenbelt Connection operated on Wednesday, January 28, the first day of operation following the heavy snow on Sunday, January 25. Thirty-seven rides were provided, the second heaviest day over the past year. Almost all rides were for shopping at either Co-op, Greenway Center, Beltway Plaza or the Giant.

Pet Owners Warned

Salt used to melt snow, and antifreeze, can be fatal to pets, according to the Maryland Veterinary Medical Association. After a walk in areas where salt has been used, the pet's feet should be washed with warm water and the areas between the foot pads should be checked for salt residue.

Dogs are attracted to the sweet taste and strong smell of antifreeze. Prompt treatment is essential as seizures may occur within 24 to 48 hours and can eventually cause kidney failure. At this stage, it is too late to help the animal.

Greenbelt's Business

Local Businesses Sponsor "I Need It Bad Party"

by Elaine Skolnik

The first annual "I Need It Bad" party at the Greenbelt Hilton on February 26 added $1800 to the coffers of the Sunshine Foundation, the nationally recognized volunteer organization which makes wishes come true for chronically and often terminally ill children. Four hundred thirty persons attended the fundraiser to help send 250 children from the James E. Duckworth school in Beltsville, D.C. Village and Montgomery County schools to Disney World. Benefit sponsors were Capital Office Park, the Greenbelt Hilton and Towers and Classy 95 (WCLY-FM).

One of the evening's many highlights was the presentation of a $500 donation by Edward McGehrin on behalf of the College Park Rotary Club. Another was the appearance of Pat Fox, president of the Foundation's Washington area chapter who noted that there are 20 chapters across the country "all volunteer-staffed."

Fox explained that on the upcoming trip to Disney World, the children would be accompanied by many helpers including 15 police officers from the Metropolitan and Montgomery County departments who will serve as lifters. "In Disney World we pick up support staff from the United States Navy," she said.

Since the Sunshine Foundation's inception in 1976 the dreams and wishes of over 3,500 children have been answered. The Foundation also offers support to the families during their crises.

For the occasion of the party the Hilton's grand ballroom was transformed into a beach scene complete with sand, palm trees, surfboards, canoes, beach videos and music. Seen among the volunteer bartenders were Greenbelt's Mayor Gil Weidenfeld and council members Ed Putens and Joe Isaacs and County Council member Richard Castaldi. The emcees, disc jockeys Jeff Baker and Scott Woodside of WCLY-FM, presided over games and along with Hilton general manager Patrick Duffy and director of food and beverage Mark Holden awarded many prizes.

Information about the Sunshine Foundation may be obtained by calling 223-3660.

New Hanover Parkway Bldg. Planned for October Opening

by Elaine Skolnik

On the ever-changing Greenbelt landscape, the five-story Commerce Center is rising on seven and a half acres of the former Smith-Ewing tract in fast-growing Greenbelt East. "We're looking good for an October 1987 opening," said Babi Meekins, leasing agent for the Rubin Companies who, in a joint venture with the Midland Companies, are developing the property.

With all of the steel framework now in place, the 126,000 gross square-foot angular-shaped structure is expected to present a compelling profile on the southeast corner of Hanover Parkway and Greenbelt Road. About 100,000 square feet will be utilized for office space on the second through the fifth floors and 19,000 square feet of retail space will occupy the first floor.

"We have not drawn on a particular period of architecture," said architect Alan Lockman, who described the building's style as "sensitive contemporary." The stepped facade, he explained, while more expensive to build, was "created because of height limitations imposed on us. . . . We did not want a mammoth and scaleless building."

The building, which has 16 offices per floor and 25 usable balconies, features intricate brick details built into the wall. Warm gray simulated limestone texture trim was selected to harmonize with the deep red brick of which the structure is primarily composed. Lockman noted that the insulated thermally efficient green glass bayed windows (will have) frames in a dark forest green and the low mansarded roof will have a coppery green-like finish. screen to conceal the usual rooftop mechanical equipment. This was necessary, he said, since Commerce Center sits in a valley and only the top two floors of the building will be seen, for example, from the Greenbelt Road bridge over the Baltimore-Washington Parkway.

The long face of the building parallels Hanover Parkway with one access off Greenbelt Road and another off Hanover Parkway. The latter driveway will be shared by the planned Residence Inn, to avoid additional curb cuts.

The main pedestrian entrance from the 450-car parking lot opens into a three-story atrium lobby which faces southeast. The lobby runs diagonally through the building, becoming one-story high on the northwest side, which is a lower elevation than the atrium lobby. The latter lobby features granite floors and planters, reflective ceilings and a decorative brass and glass staircase rising from the middle of a triangular garden to the second floor.

Lockman observed that the usually harder to lease second floor would become more attractive from a leasing standpoint since it will have direct access to the lobby.

Leasing

Meekins and Gary Modjeska, Partner, Midland Companies were optimistic about being able to fill the Commerce Center. "We have had inquiries and already leased to Mt. Vernon Realty, Inc. 2,080 square feet of retail space and 8,375 square feet of office on the second floor," said Meekins. She explained that "While we are open to government contractors, we expect to attract attorneys, accountants, insurance and other service oriented businesses who are conscious of their public image and prefer to locate in a first class building."

Meekins and Modjeska were not concerned about a possible office glut. Modjeska observed that "Prince Georges County is a relatively good place to be . . . (It has) lower glut than you might find in other places. . . . Greenbelt, in particular, is a good strong market with pretty good prospects for absorbing office inventory."

He also noted that "it makes sheer economic sense for us to build. We are not building for tax reasons."

Commerce Center is the first Midland-Rubin joint venture. Rubin has developed office buildings in Rockville and Washington and has built about 30 shopping centers from Boston to Richmond. Midland's residential and commercial developments, including shopping centers, have been constructed in Washington and Virginia.

Lockman Associates of Washington, D.C. are the architects on the project and Greenhorne & O'Mara, Inc. of Greenbelt are the engineers. Construction is being performed by the SB Construction Company of Silver Spring.

History

The history of the Smith-Ewing tract is long and complicated. In July 1965 the county commissioners rejected the controversial proposed area 13 College Park-Greenbelt and vicinity Master Plan, and sent it back to the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission for restudy and revision. At the same time, contrary to the recommendations of the Greenbelt City Council, the commissioners rezoned 21.9 acres of the acreage to R-10 (high density high rise) apartment zoning.

Greenbelt City Councils have consistently been opposed to development in the R-10 zone because (1) it would adversely impact the city's road system and (2) because Greenbelt already had an overbalance of apartments and needed single-family homes.

When applications for rezoning of property from R-10 to commercial surfaced in 1985, along with applications for commercial, residential townhouse and single family homes on the 83.39-acre Tidler tract located just south of the Smith-Ewing tract, the Zoning Hearing Examiner and staff of the Prince Georges County Planning Board recommended denial because the 1970 College Park-Greenbelt and Vicinity Master Plan recommended limiting commercial zoning to the area west of Hanover Parkway which is now the Greenway Shopping Center and Maryland Trade Center Park.

On the home front the Greenbelt City Council unanimously opted for approval of all rezoning applications with the blessing of organizations representing Greenbriar, Windsor Green, Glen Ora and Hunting Ridge developments. Council and the associations felt that in recommending approval (1) the possibility of highrise apartments on the Smith-Ewing tract was eliminated, (2) single-family homes would be gained on the Tidler property and (3) covenants would be established dealing with development and building height restrictions, buffers and traffic studies.

On June 24, 1985 the Prince Georges County Council, sitting as the District Council, approved the petitions for rezoning 105.19 acres of the Smith-Ewing and Tidler properties.

Krzwicki Promoted

George A. Krzwicki was promoted to assistant vice-president by Johnston, Lemon & Co., Inc., a Washington-based investment firm, according to Ginny Kelly, vice president and branch manager of the Greenbelt branch office. Krzwicki graduated in 1974 from the University of Maryland, and in 1982 received accreditation from the Donald T. Regan School of Advanced Financial Management. In addition to responsibilities as an Investment Broker at Johnston, Lemon's Greenbelt office he is also a faculty member of Prince Georges Community College, teaching financial and investment planning.

Indoor Soccer News

by Jane Cosner & Kevin Wheatley

The Greenbelt Soccer Association officially started its first season last week. There are two teams, and for lack of a better name (for the time being) they are called the "78ers" and "76ers" (their age categories).

76ers

On Saturday, February 28 the team came together with a bang that the "Gators" (their opposi-tion) will be feeling for some time to come. This week there are two honorable mentions: Jason Ever-hart and Miguel Pereira — both of whom scored hat tricks (3 or more goals in one game). Con-gratulations Jason and Miguel!! Other scores were made by Adam Wheatley, Jason Harbin and Kev-in Lynch, after receiving well executed assists from T. J. Trim-ble and Kris Todd.

The final score was: Greenbelt 9, Gators 3, which never could have been accomplished without Greenbelt's two awesome goalies: Jason Harbin and Greg Hunanian. The whole team played just as that—a team. And the final score shows just how well the entire team played.

The 78ers got a rude introduc-tion into the world of indoor soc-er and having to play against 11 and under (there is no league for eight year olds). The "rook-ies" fell to Mitchelville 13-0. The team is not expected to win a single game this season and there is no pressure on them to do so.

The only goals for them to ac-complish are to learn the indoor game by instinct and to toughen up for a more important assignment that is to represent their hometown by playing in the annual Ocean City Indoor Soccer Tournament against children their own ages.

They are some very good soccer players with great en-thusiasm and determination. And after taking their licks at Whit-marsh, they will be feared by all their age.

The team members are: Tommy Bradley, Ryan Cavanaugh, April Collmer, Stephanie King, T. J. Lubey, Michael Merringer, Ryan Putens, Jeff Timer, Michael Todd, Kelly Wheatley and team man-ager, Eric Jorgensen.

Almost all of these children are A and B students in school.

GHI NOTES

The Member and Community Relations Committee will meet Wednesday, March 18, at 8 p.m. in the Board Room.

Plans are underway for a Greenbelt-wide house and garden tour on May 16 and 17. The 50th Anniversary subcommittee run-ning the event would like to have many GHI homes and gardens on the tour. GHI members interested in opening their homes or gardens for the tour are asked to call Nancy DePlatchett (474-8655) or Joan Freeman (474-4161) as soon as possible.

Many GHI members attended an energy management workshop on Wednesday, January 28. Staff members Kenny Grimes and Leta Mach presented ways to cut en-ergy bills but still keep the home warm. These tips are available in a packet in the GHI reception area.

Did You Know

*Did you know that a measles epidemic hit Greenbelt in the early months of 1942? Eighty-five children came down with the disease in February of that year. The city's physician recommended that parents keep their children out of school for 17 days, the incuba-tion period for the disease. By May the number of new cases had dropped to 61. In June, with only six new cases, the epidemic was almost over.

*Did you know that sixth and seventh graders from the Greenbelt Elementary School (Center School) created the nature trail behind the tennis courts? Part of the project involved constructing rustic bridges over the streams. This was accomplished in the fall of 1942. The pathway, part of the Attick Lake Park system of trails, still exists.

Four Students Win SHL Essay Contest

Over 200 students in the Greenbelt community participated in Springhill Lake's mini-essay contest, "Message to the President". Students were asked to write a brief message to President Reagan describing their joys and concerns. They chose topics ranging from the plight of the homeless to the decrease in educational funding. Springhill Lake sponsored this event as a kickoff to the Lantern of Learning Ceremony to be held October 14.

Each winner of the four age groups (Grades 1-3, 4-6, 7-8 and 9-12) was presented with a U.S. Savings Bond, provided by Equitable Savings, Maryland National Bank, and Springhill Lake. Runner-up prizes were donated by McDonald's and Popeye's Restaurants. All of the messages were submitted to the White House and each of the winners and runners-up will receive a congratulatory letter and White House kit. The four winners were: Chou Nguyen, Eleanor Roosevelt High School, Charity Bodell, Greenbelt Middle School, and Mercedes Cremata and Bonnie Lapelosa of Springhill Lake Elementary.

Youths Stage Near-Riot At Beltway Plaza Mall

by Jack Brickman

An off-duty Prince Georges County police officer sustained minor injuries in a wild melee which occurred about 10:30 p.m., Saturday, February 28 at the Beltway Plaza Mall.

According to Greenbelt police spokesman Pat McAndrew, the off-duty officer had gone to the assistance of a young man who had been set upon and was being beaten by several youths near the Academy 6 theaters in the mall. One of the assailants jumped on the officer's back and knocked him to the floor. Almost immediately the fighting spread, quickly involving several separate groups of young people, and conditions rapidly deteriorated into a scene of wild disorder with various groups fighting each other.

Greenbelt and Prince Georges County police responded in force and the melee broke up at the sound of police sirens, with participants fleeing in all directions. A crowd estimated by police at about 500 persons, mainly spectators, had gathered, but police were able to restore order rapidly.

McAndrew reports that there was no evidence of weapons being used in the fighting and no one was injured so seriously as to require transportation to a hospital. Police were unable to determine a cause for the outbreak of violence. The injured off-duty officer was given first aid on the scene. There was no damage to mall property, says McAndrew.

Newspapers received are not only from the local area but also include national papers such as the Christian Science Monitor, New York Times and Wall Street Journal.

The new year has brought some changes to the collection, including the introduction of several new titles. The library has received Investor's Daily, a financial newspaper which has some features not found in other financial newspapers. New magazines include Astronomy, Backpacker, Compute, Horticulture and Travel and Leisure, Architectural Digest, Washington Apple Pi and Whole Earth Review.

Those considering major purchases or contracts for services should be aware of the variety of consumer information available at the library. In addition to the issues of Consumer Reports, Consumer's Research and Washington Consumer Checkbook, the library also has a special index to consumer information in other magazines. County Bill to Delay Rezoning During Master Plan Review

A bill to delay the processing of zoning applications in an area undergoing master plan review was presented to the Prince Georges County Council this week by Council Member Richard J. Castaldi.

Under existing procedures, Castaldi said, land rezoning is allowed to take place while land use policies are being reevaluated.

Because of the relatively long time between the initiation of master plan preparation and the adoption of a sectional map amendment for an area, a substantial amount of change can occur simply during the study effort.

"Obviously, this severely limits the options open in terms of land use policy. Further, it undermines the County's ability to implement new policies which may be in the public interest and which reflect present-day perspectives on planning and zoning uses," Castaldi stated.

He said under current procedures for sectional map amendments, the Planning Board of Park and Planning, may not accept or process zoning map amendment applications within a sectional map amendment area from the time a SMA is transmitted to the county council to the time of final action by the council — a maximum period of nine months.

The total additional time in which processing would be postponed under terms of the bill is another 9 months which Castaldi considers "... a reasonable period in light of the customary time span involved in master plan and SMA preparation of from three to five years.

He said the bill is particularly important now because three master plan sectional map amendments projects are nearing preliminary plan preparation and are expected to be going to public hearings within the next nine to 15 months.

These projects include Bowie-Collington; Greenbelt-Langley Park-College Park and Subsection 1, the northwestern area, of Beltsville, South Laurel and Montpelier.

Once presented, the bill goes to an appropriate committee, then to a second reading and a public hearing before vote on final passage.

Audubon Society Offers Ecology Camp Scholarship

Through its Truman Clark Memorial Fund, the Prince Georges Audubon Society is offering a full scholarship to attend one-week sessions of the Connecticut Audubon Ecology Camp. All environmental educators are qualified to apply and college credits are available. The application deadline is March 31.

Camp participants will have a variety of "hands on" field and workshop experiences. The program focuses on how nature works, the interdependence of life, and what can be done to protect it. For further information, contact Emily Conrad, Scholarship Chairman, at 262-3864.

Many of the officials and volunteers were Greenbelters and the Greenbelt Recreation Department provided showers. One runner from Canada was particularly appreciative. The Greenbelt Jaycees was the main sponsor as they have been for many years. The Hilton Inn provided the main prizes to the two winners. All Greenbelters in the race can receive a prize by contacting the Greenbelt Running Club at 474-9362.

Deepest sympathy on the death March 8 of Jim Bransky goes to his wife Karla and their two young daughters, and to his parents Rudy and Mary and his brother and sisters. Jim will be greatly missed.

Condolences to the entire Greenbelt/Beltsville family of Linda Goodenough on her death—husband Gayde, mother Hazel Sides, sons Hans and Robert, and daughters Gigi and Kitz. Our sympathy goes out to them.

Maurice Love and Betty Petroff, both of Greenbelt, were included in the 1987 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges." They were among 35 Prince Georges Community College students who were selected by a campus nominating committee and the editors of the directory. Selections were based on academic achievement, community service and extracurricular leadership activities. Congratulations!
